ChiliProject - Feature # 238: Users page link syntax

Status:	Ready for review	Priority:	Normal
Author:	Derek Montgomery	Category:	Text formatting
Created:	2011-02-28	Assignee:
Updated:	2013-02-12	Due date:

Remote issue URL:
Affected version:
Description:	Would be nice to have a user:"User Name" syntax for wikis and such (just as there is projects, commits and other links).

History

2011-02-28 05:21 pm - Ian Freeman

+1

I think this is one of those brilliant ideas I had the other week, but forgot all about it by the time I sat down at the computer :)

2013-02-12 04:53 am - Nick Peelman

- Status changed from Open to Ready for review

I have a "pull request":https://github.com/chiliproject/chiliproject/pull/92 open for this. I'm currently in the process of updating it (it is almost as old as this ticket) and getting the requested unit test going for it.

It should be ready to merge, once I do a push here soon.

It doesn't use the user:"User Name" syntax, but rather @shortname instead, ala twitter. Nothing fancy like Ajax completion either, but there's always room for adding that later.