Description:	When updating issues, we are presented with a textbox to leave a comment/note and some options to edit.
	It happens that sometimes we want to edit a lot of issues to change options which are hidden by default and require to click on the _show more_ link. I think this would need some UI analysis to determine a way to make this more productive if someone wants to do that on a large scale.

I've been wanting to remove the (more) link shortly after it was added. I have a proposal in the forums for some UI changes, would you mind reading it and posting your thoughts there? https://www.chiliproject.org/boards/2/topics/480
